Center of Vocational Excellence (COVE) Project for the Tourism Industry

Fifth Newsletter

Dear Friends & Partners,

Celebrating 2 Years of TourX

As we reach the third anniversary of TourX, we reflect on a journey that has united 22 organizations and over 40 professionals committed to fostering excellence in tourism across Europe. Our collaborative efforts have not only strengthened partnerships but also paved the way for innovative approaches in vocational education.

Milestone Moments: Our Journey So Far

TourX stands out for collaborative achievement, synergizing with other pioneering projects throughout Europe. Our mission has been clear from the start: to bridge vocational institutions, businesses, and public authorities across diverse European regions, creating a unified platform for excellence.

Highlights from the Study Visit to China

Our project reached a significant milestone with a comprehensive study visit to Chengdu, China from November 11 to November 15, 2024. Our delegation, comprising 25 dedicated representatives, engaged with over 50 Chinese educational institutions to deepen our understanding and forge new partnerships in vocational education. The tour commenced with insightful discussions led by AKMI's International Director and General Secretary of EVBB, Theodor Grassos, alongside Marievi Gretsi, Project Coordinator for TourX. They focused on the pivotal role of EU-China educational collaborations, supported by the Foreign Affairs Office of Chengdu and the Director of Higher Education and Vocational Education Section of Chengdu, setting a high standard for international academic partnerships. Everything was made possible by the special commitment of Ms. Segree Dai and her team, from EUPIC.

The delegation engaged deeply with local institutions, starting with a visit to Longquanyi District where they attended the China-Europe Vocational Education Forum. This was followed by networking sessions between TOURX partners and Chinese vocational colleges, highlighting the collaborative spirit and shared goals.

Participants also visited notable educational institutions such as Polus International College and Sichuan Changjiang Vocational College. These visits provided a firsthand look at the integration of vocational training with industry needs, showcasing facilities dedicated to hospitality training and other vocational skills, which are essential for nurturing global professionals.

Cultural immersion was a key component of the visit, with the delegation touring the Chengdu Research Base of Giant Panda Breeding, an iconic conservation facility, and experiencing the vibrant teahouse culture at Chengdu's People's Park. Additionally, participants explored historical sites like Kuanzhai Alley and the Jinsha Site Museum, enriching their understanding of Sichuan's rich cultural heritage.

The visit concluded with reflective sessions where participants shared their insights and discussed actionable strategies to incorporate their learnings into their respective organizations, fostering a forward-thinking approach to vocational education.

Digitalisation in Tourism: Empowering SME

During the TourX event in Brussels this July, co-organized with European Entrepreneurs CEA-PME and EVBB, industry leaders discussed the transformative impact of digitalization on tourism.

Keynote speakers emphasized the necessity of upskilling and reskilling to enhance SME competitiveness and support sustainable tourism practices. Isabel Yglesias highlighted the importance of integrating digital tools to improve both business operations and community impacts, while Felix Rohn focused on the need for continued education and training following pandemic disruptions.

The panel, featuring insights from EU experts, addressed regional digital initiatives and the importance of lifelong learning to adapt to technological advances. Antonio Gennarelli presented the TourX project's goals to elevate tourism training and promote international excellence.

This session underscored the pivotal role of digital skills in advancing the tourism sector, fostering a competitive, sustainable, and adaptable tourism workforce.
